Postmodernism is a broad movement that developed in the mid- to late-20th century across philosophy, the arts, architecture, and criticism and that marked a departure from modernism. The term has also more generally been applied to the historical era following modernity and the tendencies of this era. (In this context, "modern" is not used in the sense of "contemporary", but merely as a name ...

As readers of Ethics Etc may know, I had co-written a paper in 2012 called Human Engineering and Climate Change in which we suggested, among other things, that having smaller humans could be a way of combating the effects of climate change. The paper received a lot of attention in the media (see, e.g., here, here, and here) and I gave a talk at the Sydney Opera House and a TED talk on this topic.
